'Shoonya' is not 'nothingness'

says KRISHNA NATH

"Nothing has its own intrinsic character. Everything exists in relation to something else. The name of this realization is 'shoonya'" – Krishna Nath

INTERVIEW

Baul has Buddhist roots

says PARVATHY BAUL

“What my gurus have taught me is that don't get stuck with one idea. Search. So I feel the need of bringing these Baul poems of Buddhist monks of that time back to our repertoire.”

VISUAL STORY

Both social activists and religious leaders misuse Kabir

says KAPIL TIWARI

“Those who use Kabir for the sake of social movements, it is surprising that Kabir's spirituality and mystical experience finds no favour with them.”

ESSAY

Aarshi Nogor says
PARVATHY BAUL

Trivandrum, 2009

In this enigmatic song, Baul saint–poet Lalon evokes the dazzling Arshi Nogor – A City of Mirrors. In this city, lives a neighbour who has no hands, no feet and yet, his boundless spirit beckons us to jump into swirling waters without a boat or a boatman to carry us across. Who could this neighbour be?

Had Anhad
I Lost My Heart To Nizam’s Glance

The story highlights the gulshan–e–na–afreeda (the Uncreated Garden) that Shah Inayat spoke of, to evoke his utopian vision of a world in which the human spirit was not driven by fear, mistrust, oppression and exploitation, but rather was guided by a non–egoic spirit of connection and love.
