Akho Das BHAKTI POET

Akho Das (1591–1656), also known as Akha Bhagat was a 16th century bhakti poet from Gujarat. According to the tales people tell about Akho, he became an ascetic at a young age. He was working at the Royal Mint in Ahmedabad and got falsely accused of a fraud. Disillusioned with the material world and holding contempt for its pettiness, Akho left on a solitary spiritual journey which took him to Gokul. EXPLORE

He not only understood the nuances of poetry and music of the Sindh region intimately, but also shared it with his audiences in a manner infused with the message of peace, oneness and humanity.

'Bawa Bha' was born on 7th September, 1950, in a family of 10 siblings in a small village called Dhrab near Mundra in Kutch, where he lived till the end of his life. He studied formally upto 7th standard in Mundra's government primary school. It was with his uncle, Ali Mamad Jamadar, a master of the 36 Kutchi raag-raaginis, that Bawa Bha came into his own. Had Anhad I Lost My Heart To Nizam's Glance

The story highlights the gulshan-e-na-afreeda (the Uncreated Garden) that Shah Inayat spoke of, to evoke his utopian vision of a world in which the human spirit was not driven by fear, mistrust, oppression and exploitation, but rather was guided by a non-egoic spirit of connection and love.
